Everywhere you look and listen, people are talking about the economy. Yes, there is a recession. Yes, these things go in cycles and this too shall pass. But thriving and new businesses do exist in this climate and Maine is no exception. Now there is a new website or "blog" if you will, that focuses on businesses in Maine, The Maine Digital Press.

The Maine Digital Press will write about and cover businesses in every county in Maine. Blog writers are sought for all counties to submit such submissions. We are also taking nominations for businesses that should be featured. Check out the Maine Digital Press today!
